Hedge today, gone tomorrow

Obscured views from her home are a thing of the past for housebound Tile Hill resident Grace Maule, after dedicated workers cut back her garden hedge.

Whitefriars Housing Group tenant Grace, aged 87, is delighted with the restored view from her front room now the offending foliage has been removed by newly-appointed contractors English Landscapes.

She said: “The view from my front room is my window on the world and the hedge was stopping me from seeing out properly. It’s so much better now that it has been cut back.”

Mrs Maule’s hedge is just one of the many jobs that teams of staff from English Landscapes have been getting to grips with for Whitefriars’ tenants. As well as tidying communal areas they have begun the year-round tasks of grass cutting, shrub pruning, street cleaning and litter picking in areas around Whitefriars’ properties across the city.

English Landscapes Contract Manager, Dave Akerman said: “While cleaning and maintaining communal areas across the city is an ongoing project, it’s great to hear that we also make a difference to individual people as well.”

English Landscapes is a market leader in the fields of landscape maintenance and landscape construction and focuses on quality service provision for organisations across the country.
